

WHAT WORKS SOUTH ASIA

Evidence-based strategies to enhance development in South Asia

2023

NEW DELHI, 28-30 NOVEMBER

Campbell South Asia is supporting the evidence revolution in South Asia. The conference's objective is to advance the comprehension and application of evidence-based approaches to enhance the development of South Asia.

Evidence helps decision-makers follow effective strategies, leading to the implementation of better policies for social and economic growth. Evidence synthesis offers a succinct overview of the existing evidence.

WWSA is a platform for scholars, experts, and policymakers to explore methodologies, innovations, research gaps, and other subjects in evidence synthesis for development, with a specific emphasis on the challenges faced by low- and middle-income countries.

About Campbell South Asia

Campbell South Asia (CSA) is a national and regional centre of Campbell Collaboration and is hosted by the Global Development Network (GDN).

The Campbell Collaboration is an international research network supporting the production and use of rigorous evidence synthesis. Campbell Systematic Reviews publishes systematic reviews and evidence and gap maps on a wide range of topics. CSA's role is to promote the work of the Campbell Collaboration across South Asia. The primary focus of this work is to encourage the greater production and use of Campbell Reviews nationally and regionally.
